I have listened to the arguments for both sides of this case for years. In the end the only ones that I feel come out on top are the lawyers. They have nothing better to do than go after the most successful business in the world. Companies like AOL Netscape Sun and Oracle are jealous of the success of Microsoft and feel that their products are not as good. Why not let them produce higher quality product(s) and let that beat Micosoft. I think that this should come to and end very fast with Microsoft allowed to innovate create and deliver their high quality integrated products that the consumer wants. All of this legal action makes the prices go higher. Let s put a stop to it now.
